Vital Matters Before Trustees

The paramount business before the Carmel city trustees at last Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting was a long and vigorous discussion engaged in by members of the board, the city attorney and property-owners concerning the proposed general sewer system. Discussion of the matter was precipitated by the reading of a resolution of intention proposing to do the work necessary in accordance with the 1911 and 1915 acts.

Following arguments both for and against the scheme by R. F. Gillett, Winsor Josselyn, W. P. Silva, Herbert Heron, Talbert Josselyn and others, a motion by Trustee Perry Newberry was adopted to place the entire matter in the hands of a competent sanitary engineer and the Board of Health for advice.

Objections were not to the sewer itself, but to the method of assessment, the law under which it was proposed to be done, and to the exclusion and inclusion of certain sections of the city in the tentative plans.

The next long-drawn-out subject for consideration had to do with the proposed municipal business license ordinance. Clerk Saides Van Brower was required to read fifteen pages of closely written typewriter matter covering the provisions of this ordinance and also several notes attached thereto. At the conclusion of the reading it was found that Trustees Newberry and Beardon were not in favor of the ordinance as proposed. An informal poll of the board showed Trustees Kibbler, Parkes and Maxwell in favor. Therefore City Attorney Argyll Campbell was directed to prepare for first reading an ordinance such as was read, including the notes.

Mayor William T. Kibbler was authorized to proceed to San Francisco to take over the bonds and other property bequeathed to the city for library purposes by Mrs. Ella Reid Harrison.

The acceptance of the Dolores street improvement provoked an acrimonious debate between H. P. Larouette and members of the board. It was alleged that the specifications for the work had not been followed. To this allegation reply was made that the matter was in the hands of the city engineer.

No action was taken to confirm the appointments by Mayor Kibbler to the Harrison Library board recommended by the executors of the Harrison estate. Those named were Mrs. Susan O. Porter, Mrs. Lotta A. Shipley, Preston W. Search, Dr. Alfred E. Burton and Jo Mora.

The board tendered to R. G. Leidig a vote of thanks for a donation of auxiliary fire fighting equipment and for his offer to maintain the same.

C. O. Gould was complimented for his good buy of horses, wagon and other street repairing equipment for the city.

The street commissioner will see to the installation of culverts to carry storm water on Junipero street at Ocean avenue and on Mission street at Eighth avenue.

Both the sewer matter and the license ordinance will be brought up at a meeting on Tuesday, December 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Josselyn have returned from abroad. The former was away three months and the latter six. They visited in France, Spain, and England. On Armistice Day they were in Paris. It was a wonderful celebration of the day, which they would not have missed for anything. They are delighted to be in Carmel again, and particularly at Christmas time.

Audience Enjoys Dobie Comedy

Miracle of miracles! A near all-star cast in Carmel. That is what Producer Perry Newberry gave us last Friday and Saturday nights in "Doubling in Brass," the third of the Thanksgiving week plays given as the opening bill of our new Arts and Crafts Theater.

From the opening of the curtain in the first act, through three acts to the finale, the audience was not suffered to experience one dull moment. The dialogue is sparkling, the action snappy and the suspended interest continuous.

Charles Caldwell Dobie, author of the play, who had seen the Players' Club do it in San Francisco, got as much kick out of the performance as anyone. It is doubtful if he has seen a better cast interpret his work.

The story of the play concerns the tribulations of a medicine show. When the play opens we see the crowd gathering for the performance. Mingling in the crowd in Hand, Miss M. De Neale Morgan, Mrs. L. S. Slewin, Miss L. R. Lichtenhaler, Mrs. Sydney Yard, Miss Ida A. Johnson, Miss J. M. Culbertson, men, girls and boys. In this scene Steve Glassell did a walk across the stage that brought down the house.

But what really put the audience in good humor was the song number by Ruth Kuster aided and abetted by Jack Flanner at the organ. All Carmel is whistling or humming "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie," and that's where they got it. Try it yourself, interpolated with a little waltz step. You get pepped up at once.

Then there was Richard Hoagland, who acted as the show peanut vendor and man of all tasks. No one has yet been able to figure out how he managed to get into Tom Bickle's trousers and stay there.

Katharine Cooke showed her fine stage training in the role of the lovesick maiden, dominated by the unscrupulous Felix Dupont (Jo Mora). Jo was a villainous villain.

Jack Flanner did a good bit of work as a budding author of a Russian play, and when he failed, the audience was quick to get this line, "Cut out that Russian stuff and give us some American plays."

Ostensibly Tom Bickle was the hard-boiled owner of the show, but it soon became apparent that the real boss was none other than Clara Leidig. What she said went, and no mistake. They both acted splendidly.

Joe Hand was the typical old-time, broken-down circus man.

As a Spanish dancer Eve Bickle displayed some fetching costumes, and incidentally led Charlie Birkey a merry chase until the end of the play.

Our old friend, Pon Sing, could not possibly have done a better job than did Frank Berkeley as the Chinese cook.

The court-room scene, always a difficult scene to get over, was well done. Bob Leidig appeared for the people and Andrew Jacobsen for the defense. Mayor Kibbler was a dignified judge, and Dick Johnson, red mustache and all, was a very humane bailiff.

One of the medicine show numbers was a solo dance by Frances Glassell. It was a classy bit of work.

We did not see Ben Loxley as the spider, but we certainly heard him.

"Waltz me around again, Willie, around and around and a-r-o-u-n-d."

Following the production last Saturday night of Charles Caldwell Dobie's "Doubling in Brass," the author was the honor guest of an informal reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bechdel at their Eighty Acre home. Present were Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gottfried, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Glassell, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hatz, Mrs. William Argo, Mrs. Edward Partridge, Mrs. Thorne Taylor, Mrs. O. Rouch, Ernest Schweninger, Charles C. Dobie, Walter Christie and Winsor and Talbert Josselyn.

Fine Appreciation of Watts' Work

Bailey Willis, art critic, pays a tribute to the work of William C. Watts, Carmel Highlands artist, whose water colors are now on exhibition in Palo Alto. Willis says in part:

"The water colors command our interest by their originality and faithfulness to nature. They represent scenes from the teeming life of the East, and any one who has traveled there with an observing eye will feel on looking at these sketches that he has been transported to the narrow, crowded street, to the gardens about tiled temples and pagodas, or to the sunlit rice fields of Japan or China or India. Mr. Watts says that crowds do not worry him and one realizes that it must be so when one looks at the innumerable figures which jostle each other in these paintings. But few artists could paint them with equal accuracy."

Watts' people, like trees or clouds, are bits of color, masses of light and shade, which go to make up the kaleidoscope of the sunlit landscape.

"Those who wish to get a little nearer the true beauty of nature must work more purposefully, with more precise control of their medium. Mr. Watts' work will appeal to students as a sincere and successful effort to render that beauty with intimate understanding, while to the general public the sketches offer an opportunity to see the East through the eyes of an artist who presents it to us by a different medium, it is true, but with the charm and understanding of Kipling."

Alberto to Appear in Concert Tonight

David Alberto, the local pianist, will appear in recital tonight at the new Arts and Crafts theatre. The proceeds of this concert will go to the Arts and Crafts building fund.

Alberto's most recent public appearance was in September at Stanford University where he elicited a great deal of enthusiasm.

Probably the outstanding feature of tonight's varied program will be the four Chopin numbers. Alberto's interpretation of this composer has been the subject of some comment and doubtless Chopin has been differently interpreted with equally good taste. But it cannot be denied that he has brought his own manner of interpretation to a high point of development, so that those who may not personally agree with his interpretation and yet care for "art for art's sake" (rather than art just for their own sake) may listen with interest and admiration.

The following is the program:

Fantasia, D Minor	Mozart
Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1	Beethoven
Pavillon	Schumann
Etude, F. Major	Chopin
Mazurka, M. Minor	Chopin
Prelude, F. Major	Chopin
Nocturne, D Flat	Chopin
Aus Dem Carnaval	Grieg
Nocturne	Scriabine
Caprice Espagnol	Moszkowski

We Enjoyed Doing It

Mr. W. L. Overstreet,
Carmel Pine Cone.

Dear Mr. Overstreet:
We want to thank you for your valued assistance in making the opening of our new theater the success that it undoubtedly was. Publicity is a big part of the community achievement, and we know that our debt to you and the Pine Cone is immense. Our appreciation is proportionate.

Very sincerely yours,

Roberts Frowns on Holman Road

The proposed Pacific Grove-Carmel highway through the lands of the Del Monte Properties Company came up for discussion before the county board of supervisors last Monday, though the formal petition for the road had not been presented.

Supervisor J. L. D. Roberts of this district, who opposes the project, had read a circular sent out by W. R. Holman of Pacific Grove, which is said to be in effect a roast for those who do not want the road.

Roberts' contention is that there is already a good road between the two cities, adequate for all requirements, that the proposed road would be considerably longer than the present one, that the grade would be about the same, and that there is not sufficient money in the treasury to finance such a project.

Guess we'll continue to travel "over the hill."

A Necessary Highway

The new auditorium of the Monterey high school has been selected as the meeting place for the hundreds who will attend next Wednesday night to hear the discussion of ways and means to facilitate the completion of the Coalinga-San Lucas highway.

Unlike some other road propositions this one has merit. It is a real necessity. It would reduce considerably the mileage between Monterey Peninsula cities and the cities of the great San Joaquin valley.

The valley people want to come here summer and winter. Why not make it easier for them to do so?

Attend the meeting and help "put it over."

Visit the Rummage Sale

Have you some useful article that you do not want? Do you want something that someone else does not want?

For just such a situation as this a common meeting ground will be opened next Monday in the store next to the Pine Cone office.

It is a rummage sale, to be conducted for a week by Mrs. Alice Josselyn for the benefit of the Carmel Library. Get interested!

The Abacue Band has been organized for the occasion, and to the strains of martial music the populace will be escorted to the bazar of opportunities.

"Give and buy" is the slogan of the enterprise.

The use of the store is donated by John B. Jordan.

"Thank You All" Says Producer John

Carmel, Dec. 8, 1923
Editor, Pine Cone:

As it has been impossible for me to see and thank everyone individually who took part in or assisted with the production of "The Queen's Enemies" and "The Thrice Promised Bride"—the program that opened the new Arts and Crafts Theater—I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the members of the cast, the stage workers, those who had charge of the costumes, the properties, the decorative features, the publicity and the business details of the production. One and all I thank them.

JOHN NORTHERN HILLIARD,
Director of "The Queen's Enemies" and "The Thrice Promised Bride."

Art Objects Scarce in Germany

Art dealers and antiquarians in large German cities have few valuable objects of art left in their shops. Since the mark began its wild downward course and the distrust in money became so acute, Germans have been putting all their savings into articles which they believe to have a stable value in a world market. Old masterpieces, old furniture, old silver, old tapestries and old rugs have been eagerly snapped up if they had beauty and bore evidence of their age.

In many cases the dealers themselves withdrew the articles from the market if they were their own property. Shops, now devoid of choice pieces, keep up appearances by filling up their show windows with Chinese porcelain made in imitation of old wares and modern Russian oddities gathered from the mass of refugees which has come to Germany.

Bok Offers More Prizes

Edward W. Bok has founded a series of eight annual awards for the best newspaper and periodical advertising in the United States and Canada.

The awards will consist of a gold medal and $8500 in cash prizes, and will be known as the Harvard Advertising Awards, to be administered by the Harvard Business School. They are offered by Mr. Bok to encourage merit and stimulate improvement in advertising as one of the greatest and most important forces in our modern life.

To the end that truth shall be recognized as the factor of most practical value in advertising, the jury is instructed to lay particular stress on accuracy and fair statement.

The juries of award will be appointed each year by the dean of the Harvard Business School from among trained and experienced business and professional men who are considered especially fitted to serve as judges.

Record of a Rich Life

"My Long Life in Music" is more than the memoirs of a great master of the violin and an intimate history of the musical life of Russia from 1868 to 1917. It is an engrossing record of a life of unusual richness and variety, from the youthful Auer's days as a strolling prodigy to his last departure from Russia when Lenin assumed power. It narrates vividly his experiences in the Paris of Napoleon III, at the courts of Russia, in a London home frequented by Gladstone, Disraeli and Edward VII, and in the private reception halls of Abdul Hamid II. Professor Auer, a cosmopolitan genuinely interested in life, with keen humor and penetrating understanding, paints intimate pictures of the great figures of two generations in the great centers of Europe. There are also interesting accounts of the musical life in the former small duchies of Germany in the days when young conductors still feared to perform Wagner's music.

California Paintings En Tour

The American Federation of Arts of Washington, D. C., America's foremost art organization, has asked for a collection of block prints and color etchings from the studio of Pedro J. Lemos of Stanford University. This collection will be placed on circuit, going to many of the art galleries and schools of the Eastern and Southern states. This collection will be composed entirely of California views, for while Lemos has sketched in many parts of America, he realizes that this will be a good opportunity to advertise the landscape of Northern California, and will arrange the collection accordingly.

ART NOTES

Splendid Tribute to the Late Anne Bremer

A brief article in the Pine Cone a short time ago announced the death of Anne Bremer. It was intended at some time in the near future to present at length in these columns an estimate of her work as an artist. The writer of this article will not do that now. Instead he will quote from an invitation to attend "a memorial loan exhibit of the paintings of Anne Bremer," as follows:

"The great Master has dropped the curtain over Anne Bremer's easel. But to the bowed heads that lift from the first shock of her death comes a measure of solace in that Anne Bremer, woman, artist and friend, lives enduringly in her pictures. For in them is much of her own spirit—the will to originality, the courage that mastered a difficult technique, the intellectuality that ever dominated the allure of living color. Art was her goddess; she worshipped at the shrine with integrity of purpose reflected always in creations of form and color. Her genius burned strongly in a frail body, and though the flame has gone, it has passed the torch along."

"Even now Anne Bremer is acknowledged one of the foremost artists that the West has produced. Her pictures are among the valued possessions of many public institutions and private owners. The full expansion of her art is here exemplified, the delicacy of boldness, trees that have sap in them, the light and air flow round them; the other side of the tree exists."

A chair in memory of Miss Bremer will be installed in the Greek theater of the University of California. Funds have already been subscribed for the purpose and turned over to the regents. The chair will bear this inscription: "Anne M. Bremer, 1870-1923. Her art was the expression of beauty in universal and enduring form for the enrichment and happiness of mankind."

Laguna Beach Artist Painting in Carmel

A remark frequently made by painters who come to Carmel for the first time is, "Why didn't I come to this place before?"

The writer did not hear Joseph Kleitsch, who recently arrived here from Laguna Beach, make the foregoing remark, but, judging from the work that he has found to do here and in Monterey and along the coast since he came among us, it might well be supposed that he said something very complimentary about this section.

Joseph Kleitsch is a Hungarian. His first essay into the world of art was made in Budapest. But Budapest did not hold him long. He had the wanderlust as well as the art urge, and decided that Chicago, U. S. A., was the place for him to work and to set before the world, for better or worse, the accomplishments of his brush.

For a number of years he called Chicago home, and enjoyed every minute of it, but that old desire to move on still possessed him, and we next find him and his family—his wife and "Little Joe"—in Laguna Beach, where he has a charming studio. This is what a writer in a Los Angeles paper says about our visitor:

"Kleitsch has discovered more varieties of loveliness in Laguna Beach than any other artist. This man found the sea beautiful, that one the hills, another both the sea and the hills, with the canyon beyond them, but Kleitsch saw all these and more—he explored little intimate places, he painted the quaint old streets with their towering eucalyptus, the gardens rioting with bloom, and he introduced feminine figures straying through these charming purlieus. His re-arrangements of trees to suit his pictures are marvelously ingenious. In brief, the picture-making faculty is with him always, and he is not afraid to use a wide and vivid gamut of color. Every time he picks up his brush he paints what he sees and feels, not what he knows and thinks."

During their stay in Carmel the Kleitschs are occupying the Hamilton cottage.

Peninsula to Care for Six Hundred Delegates

At the suggestion of W. J. Locke, secretary of the League of California Municipalities, which organization has accepted an invitation to hold its 1924 convention on Monterey Peninsula, a "Dutch treat" luncheon, under the auspices of Monterey Peninsula Communities, is to be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon in Carmel Highlands Inn.

The purpose of the gathering is to make arrangements for the business session and entertainment of some six hundred delegates who are expected to be present at the convention.

Accommodations for these delegates and their wives must be arranged for in Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove. Meeting places for various sessions of the organization must be engaged in the three cities and at Del Monte, and other important matters attended to.

Manager Fenton P. Foster has the affair in charge.

Former Theatrical Man Visits Here

Fred G. Andrews is visiting his wife, Gertrude Nelson Andrews, here. Mr. Andrews, now in the publishing business in Hollywood, is a former theatrical manager. For years he managed a theater in Brooklyn, N. Y. and has taken companies from coast to coast. He was manager for Harry Bishop in San Francisco, and of the former auditorium in Los Angeles. He has run the managerial scale from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to grand opera. He was an interested spectator of Dobie's "Doubling in Brass," which, he says, is full of theatricalisms which "show" people can best understand and enjoy.

Of the thirty names drawn for the 1924 county grand jury only two are from this section — James F. Devendorf and Edward G. Hutton. The eighteen will be chosen next Monday.

Story of a Stocking That Was So Empty

JACOB SCRIM was accounted a prosperous man. Early in life he had adopted a motto of get-there-activeness that had apparently served him well. He could survey premises that yielded good rentals to him, mortgages that were a first claim upon good farms, stocks and bonds that were called gilded. Sitting in his dingy office he did not appear to have any very exacting business, but his clients found that there was plenty of exaction before they were done with him. It was a favorite amusement with him during the intervals of occupation to go over his books, gloat over his securities, and refinger a stock of gold that he kept to assure himself of the reality of his power and the possibilities of his life, should he ever care to use them. This glittering illusion he strangely kept in an old stocking, hard by another in the massive safe, the second containing a collection of gems that he lived to handle without letting any of them slip through his fingers.

He was thus amusing himself one Christmas Eve, all unconscious of the radioed and radiant hopes and purposes that filled the atmosphere outside and ever surged through the room in which he sat, and all unable to tune in with any of them, when he seemed to see upon the wall a handwriting and to hear a voice. He started at him, saying: "Oh poor dupe of falsity! When will you hang up a stocking emptied by benevolence and make an investment in real happiness? When will you serve love, that it may present you with his best gifts: are there none who need but cannot have in this great city? Are there no hopeful children who will creep down to disappointment on Christmas morning? Power of light and heat, of truth and love, of purest happiness is in these baubles that you handle, but your heart is shriveled up into nothingness. You have lost your income and must leave your principal. Come with me."

Was it a dream? Who can say? But they found him there the next morning, cold with a new coldness and grasping with a futile hand the full stocking that was so empty!—Christopher G. Hazard.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

IN A SMALL village every Christmas eve the organist of the little church and some of the girls and boys of the choir sing carols.

They go to homes where there are older people, perhaps where they cannot get out during the winter time, and they give their Christmas concert.

And they sing under the windows of these homes so that their voices sound truly as carols sung under the stars on the night before Christmas.

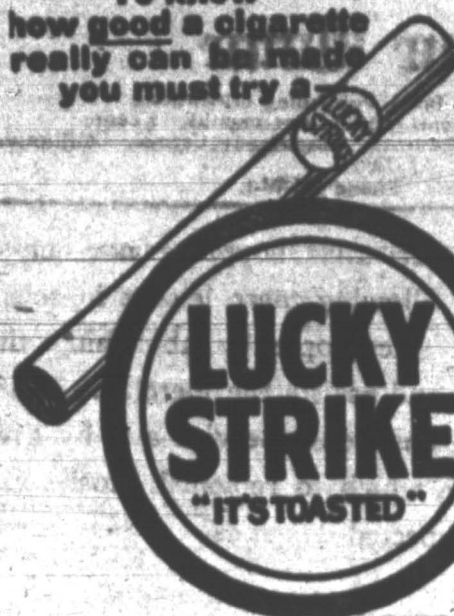

A simple enough thing to do, perhaps, but very lovely. It brings pleasure to those who hear the carols and those who sing them love this Christmas-time festival as their very own.

The above caption is general. To be specific and to start what we want to say, it might be well to say, "Carmelites, buy a picture."

Carmel is known to the world as an art center, where men and women not only paint for art's sake, but for their own sake—for their own material necessities. Our artists are able to and do sell their work to private and public galleries and homes all over the country except in their own home city, Carmel. Very few Carmel homes possess a painting by a Carmel painter.

This is not right. This should be corrected. And it will be corrected if local lovers of paintings would visit our studios and see what our artists have to offer.

You are not expected to purchase large or expensive pictures. Many beautiful small and moderate-priced works are to be had. And even if one does not buy for himself, pictures make a splendid gift.

The artists themselves must also do something. They must establish a center, permanent exhibition place for their pictures. It is true, they all have studios, but people, even residents, are not going to run about town to visit individual studios. They want to see the work of all the artists, all in one place, and at all times. In other words, they must establish an art center, such as other communities have.

WHAT MAKES A COMMUNITY?

The word "community" has come into general use of late. It has an inner meaning that may be hidden from some.

Community comes from a word meaning common. It is a place where people realize that they have common interests which all share, and where people generally take hold to work for these common purposes.

The old time interior town did not ordinarily do that. It was not as a rule a community. Every man went about his own business. It did not occur to them to pool their interests, join forces, and get things done. So they just drifted along and made little progress. A town begins to go ahead on the date that it wakes up from being just a town and becomes a community.

Interesting Meeting of Local Boy Scouts

Last Monday at scout meeting it was decided that the uniform to be adopted here be without coat, but with a neckerchief of orange with a dark green slide worn over the shirt.

Plans were concluded for an all-day hike. Starting at 8:30 this morning, weather permitting, a group of scouts will lay a trail. Half an hour later a second group will track the first to their destination.

Lunch will be cooked without cooking utensils, thus giving the boys an opportunity to pass the required cooking and fire-building tests. A number of scout games will be played during the afternoon.

Those only who have completed the requirements for becoming a tenderfoot scout will be permitted to go on the hike.

Christmas Telegrams Add Yuletide Cheer

HE WAS always busy, always rushing, always hurrying. He always had so many things to attend to and so many people were constantly pressing upon his time with this demand, with that, which required attention.

He wished he could see more of his friends. His friends wished they could see more of him. He was the sort they would like to see more of and at times they were a little annoyed that he was so busy.

He was busier than was really normal. They said he had no time for the pleasant things of life and that he could neither enjoy things himself nor could he be enjoyed because he was always having so much to do.

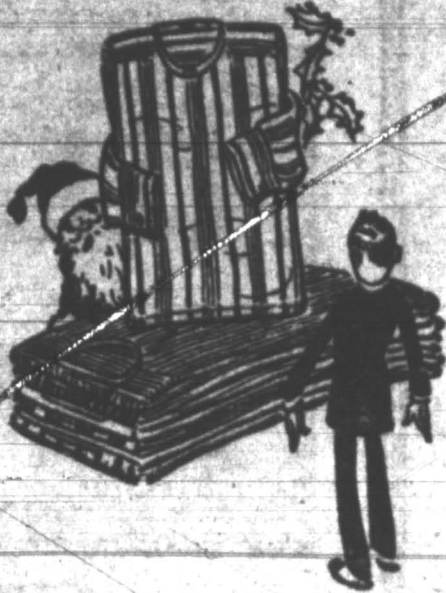

But he took time for one thing. He never failed to take time for it.

Every Christmas he sent all his friends beautiful Christmas telegrams of cheer. He thought of them and he remembered them and every Christmas morning as his friends opened their gay Christmas telegrams they would say:

"He always finds time to think of me on Christmas morning, anyway! What a pleasure this is!"—Mary Graham Bonner.

Railroads Set New Records for 1923

At least eight new records in transportation service to the public have been set by the railroads this year.

This was disclosed in the report of Directors of the American Railway Association, just received by the Southern Pacific Company, reviewing results of the program to furnish adequate transportation to the public, adopted early in 1923, and telling of plans to continue this good work for the rest of the year and in 1924.

The new records established are as follows:

(1) The railroads, from January 1 to October 1 put in service 184,886 new freight cars and 1,943 new locomotives—a larger number than in any similar period during the last ten years.

(2) A larger number of locomotives and cars have been repaired and put in serviceable condition than ever before in any equal period.

(3) The railroads handled more freight business between January 1 and October 30 than in any corresponding previous period. The number of cars loaded with revenue freight was 40,545,920. This compares with 34,326,426 in 1922 an increase of 18 per cent; and with 36,327,522 in 1920, the previous record year, or an increase of 10 per cent.

The box car surplus in the grain producing states has been the greatest in history.

(4) The average miles moved by each freight car daily in the first 9 months of the year was 27.5 miles, and in September reached 29.2 miles. This compares with 22.5 miles in the first 9 months of 1922, 22 miles in 1921 and 24.5 in 1920. This figure is based upon the total number of freight cars owned, whether in transit or not.

Without Congestion

(5) Because of these increases in facilities resulting in the more rapid movement of cars a record breaking business was handled without congestion and with practically no car shortage or embargoes for the first time in years.

(6) The amount of freight service rendered with each car was 511 tons carried one mile daily during 8 months of 1923, which exceeds the record of any previous year, and surpasses that of 1922 by over 21 per cent.

(7) From January 1 to October 1 the number of tons of coal dumped at Lake Erie ports for movement by boat to the Northwest was greater than in any previous year. The program of providing coal for the Northwest was completed much earlier than in any previous year, thereby making available additional locomotives and cars for other commercial interests during the fall and winter months.

(8) A greater amount of railroad coal has been placed in stockpile storage than was ever heretofore stored by the railroads, thereby making available additional locomotives and cars for general commercial service during the fall and winter months.

The railroads have spent $1,802,244,000 for new equipment and other facilities this year up to October 1, a record amount.

In addition to these expenditures the Class 1 roads in 1923 expended $1,663,573,271 for materials and supplies used in operation and maintenance and this year will have spent $1,800,000,000 by the end of December for this purpose.

Altogether the Class 1 roads in 1923 will have spent over three billion dollars for equipment and facilities, materials and supplies. This money has gone to the industries of the country and is one of the prime causes contributing to their expansion and the employment of labor, which, in turn, has been a major factor in the increase in domestic demand for both the products of industry and the farm.

continuance of these enormous capital expenditures, which are necessary if the public is to be adequately served, depends on such net income to the carriers as will permit a fair return on the property now devoted to the public service and will make it possible to secure the new capital which is imperatively needed. Attention is called to the fact that despite the unprecedented volume of traffic successfully handled this year, the railroads have not earned even the moderate net income permitted by the Transportation Act.

The Association also voiced the appreciation of the roads for the co-operation of the shipping public which has greatly assisted the handling of equipment. Their continued assistance is sought.

MY VOYAGE TO PORTO RICO

By Billie Argo in "Wee Acorn."

One day, when I was five years old, I was playing up in the attic at my grandfather's house in Canada. Mother came up to me and said, "We are going to Porto Rico."

In a few weeks we were to start and we went to have our passport pictures taken. My aunt told me the photographer was going to cut my head off and I was very frightened. The good joke is that when the picture was taken he had got gotten my head in the picture.

We went aboard the steamship "Philadelphia" at New York. Our voyage was by means a pleasant one, as we had forty-eight hours of storm. The water went down the smoke-stack three times and put the fire out. Mother and I, save for some of the men, were the only ones on board who went into the dining room on the first day. We had to be assisted by the waiter.

As we sailed into San Juan harbor many boys looked up and cried, "Hey, throw a nickel over there!" I did so, and one of them made the most beautiful dive after it I have ever seen—and got it.

The hotel at which we stayed was a wonder. It was like a huge cubic bead with the hole in it and all. The hole went right down from the top of the hotel to a fountain in the middle of the dining room.

Just as we were about to leave the island we found there was a steamship strike.

For six months we stayed there, but still no ships were running. One day there came steaming into the port a very large steamer. It needed repairs and was a long time getting them.

We made friends with the captain and he said, "We are going to take passengers to New York and you may have one of the best cabins."

One more month and we were almost in sight of New York. One afternoon the captain cried, "Come here!" When we got on deck we saw a floating mine. The captain told the man at the wireless to send a message to New York about it and in a little while two destroyers passed us to blow the mine up.

We got into New York without further adventures and had a great tale to tell when we got back to Canada.

It Was a "Peach"

Anyone who has an idea that Louis S. Slevin thinks of nothing but bugs and photographs has another guess coming. He's a horticulturist, and he has proved it. Who ever heard of anyone going out into his back yard, his Carmel back yard, on the first day of December, and picking a peach. Well, L. S. did just that. It was a good peach, as will be testified to by Mayor William T. Kibbler, Miss Grace Morris, W. L. Overstreet and Slevin himself, each of whom ate a quarter of the fruit.

GROVE NEWSPAPER IN NEW HANDS

With the issue of the Pacific Grove Daily Review of last Saturday our contemporary, conducted during the last ten years, first by Wallace Brown and latterly by A. B. Smith, who came to the Peninsula from Los Gatos, passed into the management of Wilson J. Thyes and Elbert Neish, who have taken a five-year lease of the plant. Edward B. Lenhart is the new editor. Many changes in the publication may be looked for.

A. B. Smith and his wife well earned a rest from the strenuous labors of getting out a daily newspaper. May they live long to enjoy their leisure.

CARMEL MINISTER SURVEYS HIS FLOCK

To show the make-up of the congregation of the Carmel Church, Pastor Fred Sheldon asked the people present at a recent reception to tell where they were born. The following resulted: Nova Scotia, Jamaica, Ohio, Iowa, Canada, New Zealand, Texas, California, Michigan, New Foundland, Illinois, Virginia, England, Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Belgium, Pennsylvania, Oregon and Utah. The largest number, nine, were natives of California.

Old Yuletide Hymn Favorite Everywhere

HERE is scarcely a church of any denomination that does not some time during the Christmas season echo to the strains of that beautiful and soul-inspiring hymn, "O, come all ye faithful." It seems to be a favorite at Yuletide in every land and in every clime, whether it is sung as above referred to, or in its original form as the "Adeste Fideles."

The hymn was first given to the world in the Thirteenth century by a Franciscan monk, but did not gain world-wide popularity for a long time after. The English translation was made by Canon Frederick Oakeley over sixty years ago. Since that time the hymn has been translated into the language of every nation and the sweet and lofty words ring out at Christmas time in many remote places.

But while the English translation has superseded the original Latin to a great extent, yet the beauty of the original composition is such that there are many who still prefer to hear it even though the language is not their own.—Katherine Edelman.

Our Christmas Days as They Used to Be

SOMETIMES it seems as if the "older days" were the best. Think of their Christmases! Where is the grace and generosity of those times? The warm welcome, the large cordiality, the mellow fun of innocent celebrations?

Perhaps we look back through the softening glow of distance, but there is a romance, a delicate, fine flavor of something which indeed seems lost to us now.

How the neighbors rode through the snow on horseback to large gatherings! How the pretty girls were muffled in rugs and furs, skimming over the road in sleighs! How the bells rattled and rang! And how the wide doors flew open to greet these guests!

Light of candles . . . breath of pine wreaths . . . sprigs of holly . . . and the high thrill of holiday thoughts.

Laughing faces . . . graceful and the Virginia reel in the evening.

It is a heartsome thing to think about. Let us try to insert some of this gentle beauty and spirit into our Christmas day. We have not the leisure and spaciousness of those times, but hearts can reflect just as truly the invisible yet invincible power of love and loveliness!—Martha B. Thomas.

This boy now scores 100 per cent perfect health, but two years ago when he was being weighed and measured, the school nurse found him far below showed early tuberculosis. He was placed in a preventorium and you see the result. There are preventoria in San Diego, Santa Clara, San Mateo, Alameda, and Los Angeles counties supported from the sale of Christmas Seals.

Cone Craft Print

Annual Announcement, Season 1923-24

THE GIFT-GIVING PROBLEM is with us once again. Whether the Christmas purse is heavy or light the use of cards extending kindly greetings gains favor with the passing years. The affluent supplement their numerous gifts of price with these timely printed words of cheer. The less fortunate find them a satisfactory substitute for the more expensive gifts. The expression of seasonable sentiment is always looked for with pleasurable anticipation, and the question of cost should not affect the measure of acceptability in giving or receiving.

THIS SEASON'S SHOWING of seasonable greeting cards is distinctive in both quality and design, with a wide range of sizes and colors. Many designs have appropriate words of cheer already printed or engraved, awaiting only the name of the sender to speed them on their way. Many others are blank, ready for the expression of an original thought. All are splendid value at the prices quoted and a satisfactory job of printing is always guaranteed. Envelopes to match. Order early while the line is complete.

Already there is a demand for a repetition of "Doubling in Brass," so well put on by Perry Newberry and an all-star cast last week.

For the school year 1922-23 the cost of transporting pupils of Carmel and other places to and from the Monterey high school was $7616.

Walter Edgerton, not so long ago a pupil at Sunset school here, came down from San Jose last week to visit with his aunt, Mrs. L. S. Stevin.

Recent guests here of Miss Georgia Sally White were Mrs. Clara Cheshire and her daughter, Miss Ursula. They motored down from Berkeley.

Mrs. John D. Gray and her sister, Mrs. M. L. Hamlin, have returned from a seven weeks' trip in the East, where they visited in Syracuse, Binghamton and New York City, N. Y.

Teaby Nichols is another Carmel high school pupil who wrote an essay on "Why I Live in Monterey County," and was commended by the Salinas Chamber of Commerce for his effort.

Forest Marshal of Australia and Robert Coons, former editor of the University of California paper, The Daily Californian, were here last week. They were guests of Paul and Lloyd Meyers at their studio in Carmel Woods.

H. B. Schulte states that the gross sales on pears shipped out of Monterey this year from Carmel Valley will be in the neighborhood of $165,000. The prices received by the growers have been the highest in the state for this type.

Between now and Christmas many splendid holiday announcements are set forth in our advertising columns by Peninsula merchants. In doing your buying at home it is well to remember that in this way you are keeping the bulk of your money at home. Read the ads.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn H. Hodges for the second time are the proud parents of a daughter born in Oakley, Idaho, October 6. Mr. Hodges has recently returned, having gone to bring Mrs. Hodges back. Mrs. Hodges was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Steel, in Oakley.

Nursery Concern Grows

The H. A. Hyde Company at Watsonville is celebrating the completion of their new greenhouses with a special Visitors' Day today. Visitors are always welcome but a special invitation is extended at this time to see the new equipment which has just been completed.

Starting with a small greenhouse less than sixteen years ago, the concern now owns two fine ranges of glass totaling over 16,000 square feet, eight acres used for display and propagation at Watsonville, and fifty acres for wholesale bulb growing in Monterey county. Over twenty men are permanently employed. Their catalogue trade reaches every state in the Union and many foreign countries.

Order confirming sale—Est. Elizabeth Foster, deceased, to Sunset School District. Lots 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, block 97, Carmel-by-the-Sea. To Arthur T. McGinty, lots 15, 16, 17, 18, block 137, addition 2, Carmel-by-the-Sea.
